

Capt. Scott Schwartz—Director, Dangerous Goods Programs
Air Line Pilots Association, Int'l

Capt. Scott Schwartz is the Dangerous Goods Program director for the Air Line Pilots Association, Int'l (ALPA). He also serves as chairman of the International Federation of Air Line Pilots' Associations (IFALPA) Dangerous Goods Committee and as a member of the International Civil Aviation Organization Dangerous Goods Panel (ICAO DGP). He is responsible for representing both the North American and worldwide pilot communities at various regulatory and industrial venues. After serving as an elected representative on the FedEx Express ALPA governing board, Scott started working on Dangerous Goods safety for ALPA and IFALPA in 2009. In addition to serving as a member of ICAO DGP since 2015, Scott has provided pilot insight to working groups of the ICAO Flight Operations and Airworthiness Panels, as well as a special multidisciplinary ICAO working group that considered the hazards of portable electronic devices in passenger checked baggage. He has worked to facilitate the shipment of infectious disease samples by the World Health Organization. Scott has also participated in aircraft accident and incident investigations as a trained aircraft accident investigator.

Scott is a full-time MD-11 captain and line check airman flying and instructing worldwide with FedEx Express. Scott started flying as a general aviation pilot in 1977 and has flown for FedEx Express for 30 years after flying for two other airlines. He earned a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1981 and PhD in the same field at the University of Minnesota in 1986.
